ant in this case is charged with falsely personating a revenue officer and obtaining $200 from one Daniel Somers. The accused was held to answer in $1,000 bail.

Alleged Violations of the Revenue Law. Yesterday a number of dealers in cigars were brought before Commissioner Osborn for alleged violations of the clause in the revenue laws, regarding that on and after the 1st day of April last tax-paid stamps should be placed on each box of cigars. It was claimed for the defence that the clause only applied to manufacturers. The case was adjourned.

The Alleged Illegal Police Arrest Case.

Before Judge Curtis. In the case of John Fallon vs. Captain Mills, of the Eighth Precinct, and officer Casey, tried before Judge Curtie a few days ago, and in which the jury rendered a verdict according six cents damages a against the defendants, plaintif's counsel yesterday moved to have the verdict set aside. The motion was opposed by defendants' counsel. The Court reseved

COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

Effects of Not Taking the Papers-Milk Without the Punch and Punch Without the Milk-A Cuban Having the Trials of Socrates, but Not His Philosophy-Turtle Chowder with

Before Judges Dowling and Kelly. was a very light calendar yesterday, only twenty-three cases, of which thirteen were charges of assault and battery and ten of petty larceny. Most of the cases were stupidly dull and common

Daniel Gallagher, though he may belong to the ote early and often class of politicians, does not evidentiy keep himself posted upon the political move-ments of the day. This fact was developed in his arraignment upon a charge of beating Charles Abchig, a Chinaman, who follows the business of elling cigars at No. 73 Cherry street.

"I was sick in bed," said the Chinaman, "when "I was sick in bed." said the Chinaman, "when Gallagher came into my place and insulted my wife. I jumped out of bed and told him to leave, and he turned upon me and beat me."

The story of the Chinaman was corroborated by his wife. No defence could be offered by Gailagher except that he began intentionally Joking with the wife and wound up with being unintentionally serious with the husband.

"Have you ever read the treaty made by our row-massed-rough of the Philosoph." No. sr." the prisoner answered. "I don't take the papers."

"No. sr." the prisoner answered. "I don't take the papers."

"It is a great misfortune, for you would never have got into this scrape if you had."

"I'll read it and not get into such a scrape again if you'll let me go," pleaded the prisoner.

"Foo late now, sir; you should take the papers."

"You are acting too much now on impulse; I'll give you twenty days in the City Prison to get cool and settle upon what papers to take; only don't take my papers."

A MILK PUNCH.

Not one of those dehclous beverages such as peculiarly gifted barkeepers at times concoct for thirsty humanity, but milk first and then a punch. It came about thus:—Officer McDonaid was walking with a friend at two o'clock in the morning, when a mikeness came along

"Certainty," answered the milkman, and he dispensed a quart, more or less, of milk to the policeman's friend.

"Your milk is good," said the policeman's friend,
"that I a'nt got no money."

The subject of the pay for the milk was being talked over when Michael Collina, a private watchman, came along. He thought it incumbent on him to say something in the matter. Officer McDonald stood up for the integrity of his friend, and indignantly hurled back the instination that it was a dead beat game being played on the milkman. Collins got nervous, and his hands commenced flying from the shoulder. The end was his arrest by the officer on a charge of assault and battery.

"You are fined ten dollars," said Judge Dowling.

"Thank you," answered Collins, and he paid the money with a pleasing promptitude, evidencing that in his own mind, viewed from the standpoint of a private watchman, it was worth this amount to be allowed to practice one's flexor and extensor muscles en a policeman.

of a private watchman, it was worth this amount to be allowed to practice one's flexor and extensor nuscices on a policeman.

A CUBAN GENTLEMAN.

Antonic Perrago is a Cuban gentleman, but why he is not at the ever-faithful isle fighting the battles of his country did not appear. That he is some, however, on fighting, appears very certain from the complaint made against him. Mary Donnelly, who came from another island, not far from the British Channel, charged him with beating her. She showed her bruisses, which were enough to move the stoutest heart. The accused told his story, which was calculated to melt to sympathy the most obdurate feelings.

feelings.
"Why did you beat this woman?" the Judge asked htm.
"She threw a pail of water on my head," answered

"she threw a pail of water on my head," answered Ferrago.
"The ancient Xantippe was given to emptying pails of liquid on the head of Socrates," said the Jadge, "and he never allowed it to stir up his anger."
"I mush have stood the water, dirty as it was," replied the Cuban, "but she followed it up by hitting me with a heavy stick on my head."
"That was the straw, then, that broke the camel's back," interrupted the Judge.
"It was no straw, your Honor."
"And so you beat her?"
"I could not have helped it if she had been my own mother."

mother."
"You certainly had some provocation. The Court finds you guilty, but suspends sentence. Don't do the like again and andeavor to take the law in your own hands."

Mrs. Ann Le Compte, of about the complexion of think, brown has, charged Louis Bryan, of like combre complexion, of beating her. Her husband lied not long ago, and she sold a suit of his clothes to the accused, and as he failed to pay her for them use called on him repeatedly tall he got out of safence with the frequency of her calls and beat ler.

patience with the frequency her. "Made you all black in the face by the beating!"

"Made you all black in the face by the beating?"
interrupted the Judge.

"Oh, yes, it was fearful the beating he gave me."
This was Mrs. Le Compte's story. Mr. Bryan told a slightly different narrative. The suit, he said, proved to be werthless, except the vest; he paid what thevest was worth and refused to pay any more; he did not beat her at all; he turned his back an hy—flegging his hand around.

"And the woman ran against it, I suppose?" chimed in the Judge.

"I nave winesses," continued the accused, "but they have goneto a turtle chowder party, and won't be back till next Encaday."

"With the Abericus Club?" interrogated the Judge.

"With the Abericus Ciub?" interrogated the Judge.

"I spect so," he answered.

"Well, if that's se, I'll remand you till next Tuesday;" and such was the order given.

If there is an unpardonable sin it is illegible manuscript. Arthur Darcy, tried at the last assaion and found goilty of a gross masdemeanor, was brought up for seatence. Judge Kelly stated that numerous letters had been submitted to him testifying to the previous good character of the accused, and about his having served in the army and being wounded. Among the jetters he had received was one from Horace Greeley, but whether asking that the severest punishment be meted out to the accused, or his discharge, it was impossible to-make out, from the cramped illegibility of the writing. He should accordingly act on his own judgment and send the grissoper to the City Prison for thirty days.

THE CASE OF HUGH KELLY.

Strange Proceedings.
The remains of Hugh Kelly, the man who recently The remains of Hugh Kelly, the man who recently died in Newark, N. J., from the effects of violence alleged to have been received several weeks ago at the hands of two or three men who assaulted him with stones near his residence, 113th street and Second avenue, are still at the Morgue. After the death of Kelly the Coroner of Essex county, N. J., commenced an investigation into the cause of death, ordered a post-mortem examination, which, it is said, revailed a fracture of the skull, and then adjourned the case till a future day. In the meantime the remains were brought to this city and placed in the Morgue, preparatory to interment by the relatives in Cairary Cemetery. Coroner Schirmer was applied to in the case and requested to hold an inquest, but declined to do so on the ground that he had no authority te interfere, inasmuch as Coroner Chase, of Newark, had commenced an Investigation, and summoned witnesses from this city to appear before him on Monday next. Yesterday morning Ceroner Schirmer received from Coroner Chase an official statement of that fact, which statement was forthwith forwarded to Dr. Harris, of the Board of Health. Accompanying the remains was a certificate from the physician in New Jersey who made the autopsy, setting forth that he found a fracture of the skull and abscess of the brain. Notwithstanding this certificate and efficial statement of Coroner Chase, now in possession of Dr. Harris, he deems it proper to withhold a permit for the burial of the body without action being taken and a certificate given by one of the coruners of this city. FINANCIAL FINESSING.

How a Broker's Office Was Opened and a Capital of a Few Hundreds Speedily Multi-plied into Thousands—An Old Dodge Shrewdly and Successfully Played.

Manifold chapters of thriding interest might be written showing up the strategic finessing of those whose ambition to acquire wealth outstrips every feeling of honesty. The arrest and arraignment yesterday, before Judge Dowling, at the Tombs, of Henry Miller, alias David Marsh, unfolds one chapter out of the many capable of being written. The story is an old one, a simple story of cool, calculating criminality, and, therefore, very easily and briefly told. A little over eighteen months ago the perbriefly fold. A listle over eighteen months ago the person whom we have named, and who then passed by the name of Henry Miller, opened a broker's office at No. 49 Exchange place. The office was most elligibly located and was well furnished, and altogether there was a very business-like air about the place. Mr. Miller opened a bank account at the ocan National Bank. He had some money—an essential preliminary to carrying out successfully his pi2-gramme. He bought stocks of all kinds and securi-ties, and bonds and mortgages and gold, and gave ties, and bonds and mortgages and gold, and gave checks and received checks. He gets a certification from his bank of $2,100 on deposit. Now comes the culmination of his financial finessing. He makes this certification read for $21,000, and with the check thus altered buys of Mr. C. Harvier $10,000 worth of gold. Mr. Harvier deposits the check in the Union Kational Bank, and it comes back to him marked as altered in the way we have described. Before Mr. Harvier gets this intelligence from his bank Mr. Miller shuts up his office in Exchange place, and the place that had known him knew him no more forever.

The next swindling game bfactised so success-place, and the place that had known him knew him no more forever.

The next swindling game practised so successfully by Mr. Miller was not to be allowed to pass unnoticed. Mr. Harvier had an interest in hunting him up and so had the Ocean and Union National Banks. The date of this financial transaction of Mr. Miller was December 10, 1887. To Captain Jourdan was entrusted the task of finding him, and, if possible, of recovering the money and bringing him to justics. Captain Jourdan has looked as unweariedly as can look a shrewd searcher after violators of the law. A few days ago be got upon the track of the object of his search. Affidavits were at once taken before Judge Dowling. The fruit of these affidavits, as embodying a clear and succinct statement of the facts, and upon which what we have written above is mainly based, we give in full. This affidavit is as follows:—

State of New York, City and County of New York, City and Dowling.

Charles H. Clark states in a further amdavit that the check referred to above was on the date mentioned presented to him as the paying teller of the Ocean National Bank for certification, and that at this time the check was for $2,100, and that the same had been changed to make it appear as having been certified for $21,000. He positively identified the check.

Upon the above amdavits Mr. Miller was arrested, as already stated, and conveyed before Justice Dowling, at the Tombs. He was at once committed to prison without bail. It is not until quite recently that Mr. Miller has ventured to return to the city, Not long since he was arrested wind a Greenwich street bank out of quite a sum of money by a somewhat similar process. It is believed that other swindies of like character can be traced home to him.

Annual Picule of the Children's Progressive Society.

Away from the beated ovens of New York that migratory band of paipable enthusiasts, yclept spritualists, went yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, not upon any serial voyage, but on a bone fide mundane, holiday excursion to him Park, in Ninety-second street, west of Eighth avenue. The day being pleasant, though somewhat heated, drew a large representation to the spacious grounds of this fine grove. The excursionists consisted chefty of young children with their matrons and feriale protectors. A special car was provided on the Eighth svenue line to convey the passengers to the rendezvens, and at eleven o'clock the party arrived at the Park. The extreme heat of the city was greatly moderated by the shandy old elims that form the chile attraction of the grove, and the disagreeable rays of the sun were intercepted by their spreading branches; besides, a delightful breeze was at large, and the occasion therefore opened, as it continued, in a very auspicious manner. The baskets of the party were empiled of their savery contents when the dinner hour came, and the people gainered as around the fatted calf and made merry. After that most importunate of masters—the atomach, had been duly served, Andrew Jackson Davis spoke in exposition of spectral theology, and was followed by the poetical and theology, and was followed by the poetical and spirituelle Mrs. Brigham, who has probably more real genius than any one connected with the movement. An address was also made by Mrs. Andrew Jackson Davis. Recitations, vocal music by the choir belonging to the Everett Rooms and other exercises of a similar character were given, when dancing was introduced. This feature of the entertainment was the best and most successful of all. A stringed band was in attendance, a man with a perfectly earthly voice called off the figures, and other manifestations of a sublumary character marked the various details of the dance, which it must be said, was generally executed with credit and grace. The appearance of the grounds was animated throughout the day. The swings, shooting galicries, burrooms, quiet corners and nooks, in short, all the convenient places of resort were visited by numerous bodies of males and femiles, old and young, rich and poor, real and idea! people, in pursuit of relaxation and pleasure. Lager neer was a large portion of the general drink taken, and whether it was this beverage or the spiritual phenomena that made the occasion so favorable to firting and the soft sighs and vain regrets of the demoisselies, was a hard question to decide, though the existence of these pleasant features was as noticeable as it was remarkably remarkable only, it should be said, in point of numbers.

SUBURBAN INTELLIGENCE.

A LUNATIC named John Burke was lodged in the ells yesterday to destroy his power for mischief. He ran through the streets threatening to take the lives of several children and became very violent. Later in the day he was removed to the Cicy Hospitat, have the hopelessly appropriate that he hopelessly.

How a Woman Forced the Fighting .- One of those squabbles among women in the First ward for which that locality has an unenviable reputation took place in Greene street yesterday afternoon, between two Kittys, surnamed Commings and Fallon. The former must be well posted in the science of fistiana, for she pounded her antagonist's face in full time a scientific maniner, and with comparatively little citort, till the ridges were almost levelled. In fact Fallon's countenance underwent a complete change. The beligerent cummings now lies in the police station to abide the results of Fallon's injustice, which may result seriously.

Communication.

THE STOCK YARDS.—During the past week 397 cars arrived at the stock yards, containing 3,420 cattie, 13,963 hogs and 13,463 sheep. There were slaughtered 413 cattle, 13,710 hogs and 5,830 sheep.

A DESPERATE CHARACTER.-Betweeh twelve and A DESPERATE CHARACTER.—Betweeh twelve and one o'clock yesterday morning a man named John Murphy, a resident of Peterson avenue, West Hoboken, was found lying outside the ferryhouse. Somebody waked him up, when he found that the boat he intended to take had just left. He then became violent, refused to pay his fare, and finally threatened to shoot jofficer Lawrence, when the latter arrested him. He was taken before Recorder Pope, who fined him they dollars for drunkenness and held him to bail in $200 to keep the peace.

A MEAN TRICK AND JUST REBUKE.—A man named Francis C. Hanson, who keeps a barroom in Newark street, anspected a youth named Courad Sperling of street, suspected a youth named Conrad Sperling of stealing one dollar from him. The young man de-nied the theft in the most positive terms. Yesterday morning Hanson approached him in a coaxing man-ner and told him if he would admit the theft he would take no further steps in the matter. At length the lad admitted, but had no sooner done so than Hanson hauled him off to the police station. Recorder Pope on learning the facts discharged the youth, and said he regretted it was not in his power to commit Hanson to the cells in punishment of such meanness.

THE PERRY BRIDGE GIVES WAY-NARROW ES-CAPE.—At half-past seven o'clock last evening the ferryboat Weehawken was entering the slip at the ferryboat Weehawken was entering the slip at the foot of Barclay street, when the chain supporting the bridge gave way and the bridge tumbled into the water on one side. The passengers all being on the boat no person was injured. This accident proves the wisdom of the pian adopted by the Hoboken Ferry Company of keeping the passengers in the waiting room securely barred up till those on the boat have all got off. Had such an accident occurred, say at the Jersey City ferry, where at times a large crowd is standing on the bridge, the result can easily be imagined. The gates at each end of the Hoboken ferryboats may be also set down as an excellent precaution against accidents to passengers. Some delay arose in the running of the boats by reason of this accident.

MILITARY MATTERS.—Major Marvin Dodd, of this city, and Major A. B. McKeon, of Bergen county, have been appointed to positions on the division staff of the National Guard, with the rank of lie atenof the forces. The Examining Board of officers was to have a .t at New Brunswick last everaing to transact important business. LAY DELEGATION IN THE METHODIST PAPISCOPAL

CHURCH.—The congregation of the H'alsoy street, Methodist Episcopal church held an election on the subject of lay delegation in their ediff se on Freiay night, which resulted in a vote of 62 for the 32 a gainst.
Forty-seven of the "ayes" were I zonounced by ladies. Next Tuesday evening the Ce atral Methodist Episcopal church holds a similar election.

NEWARK AND NEW YORK RAIL LOAD .- The new NEWARK AND NEW JORK RAIL LOAD.—The new railroad to connect Newark with N ew York has been completed as far as Railroad avenue, Newark, so that there can be now no doubt the road will be in working order before the lat of laily. Several of the directors had an excursion of a the road yesterday, and were well pleased with the manner in which it has been constructed, softling having been left undone to insure the sa goey of those travelling thereon.

THE CUBAN VOLUNTEER ' MOVEMENT .- The movethe raising of men, arm a and equipments for the Cuban patriots has now formed actual shapement. There has been raised he re a detachment of seventynine men, who, with o'rer one hundred Baitimoreans, will form a bal-tailon, which will be commanded by Colone! Henry E. Moore, formerly commandant of the 152d New York volunteers. The other officers are Major George
A. Winship, late of the Confederate army, and Major G. O. Meigs, whe was also in the Confederate service. Some of the Baitimoreans arrived here yesterday and the remainder are expected to-day.
A full supply of uniforms has been provided and the battailon will leave here for New York to-morrow morning, and at once proceed to embark on board a former blockade runner, now lying in the Sound. This organization is altogether an independent one, and is fitted out by private individuals, formerly residents of Cuba, but now living here. The arrest of the principal members of the Junta occasioned a temporary confusion among the volunteers, but they have now resolved to go on, regardless of that body. The utmost secresy has surrounded the movements of the officers and their subordinates. A meeting was held last evening on Broad street, within a stone's throw of the City Hall, when final arrangements for starting were completed.

PERILOUS POSITION OF A LUNATIC.—Early yester-day morning, while officer Post was patrolling his post along Morris avenue, his attention was sud-denly attracted by the piercing cries of a woman denly attracted by the piercing cries of a woman who sat on the third story window sill of a private residence, with her feet dangling in the air and her self with only her night dress on. The officer at once aroused the inmates, and the woman, whose name is Mary Ann Durand, and who proved to be insane, was rescued in time to prevent her failing to the sidewalk. She was a domestic, and had only been with the family a few hours. Her idea, as she expressed it, was that somebody was going 'to stabher to the heart.' Subsequently she was sent back to New York.

Brevities.—The gentleman's waiting room of the

New Jersey Railroad depot here is nearly finished and now presents quite a tasteful appearance. It will be ready for use during the week. Then for the will be ready for use during the week. Then for the ladies' department. Lieutenant Colonel J. Madison Drake has just been presented with a handsome pair of spurs by Colonel J. J. Cladek, of Rahway. They formerly belonged to the galiant Major General Sedgwick. A boy named McCauley, while picking cherries yesterday, fell from a tree and broke his arm and sustained other severe injuries. He resides in the Second ward. The other evening a prominent omicial of the Central Raifrond, while on his way home from a party here, was mistaken for a robber by a new acquisition to the police force. After a severe tussie in which the officer had his nose smashed, the raifroed man was brought to the station, but soon after liberated.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

A Burglar Folled.—At an early hour yesterday morning a lady guest at the residence of Cyrus Cieveland, on South Broadway, Yonkers, was aroused by strange sounds, and, on awaking, saw a suspicious light gleaming through the keyhole of her sleeping apartment. She at once called to her host, telling him these were thieves in the house, when he, in response, armed himself with a pistol and pursued the retreating burgler, who made good his escape. On descending to the basement, a drawer containing suverware was found to have been wrenched open, and the contents arranged conveniently to be carried off at a moment's notice. A quantity of ladies' silk wearing apparel had also been set aside for immediate transportation. Attracted by the commotion, a couple of police officers were on the spot in a new moments, and it was then discovered that the burglar had forced an entrance through a lower front window.

Impressive Religious Ceremonies.—The beau-A BURGLAR FOILED. -At an early hour yesterday INFRESSIVE RELIGIOUS CEREMONIES.—The beau-tiful and spacious place of worship recently erected by the corporation of Christ church, at Hye, was yesterday consecrated by Right Rev. Bishop Potter, assisted by about twelve clergymen from this and adjoining States. A large congregation, including visitors from the surrounding neighbor many visitors from the surrounding neighborhood, filled every available seat in the building. After the bisnop and clergy had entered the church in procession, reading the appointed service, the document deeding the sacred edifice to the bishop, and signed by the rector, wardens and vestry, was read by the pastor, Rev. R. F. Alsop, and by him tendered to lishop Potter, who in an impressive manner acknowledged the trust. The usual morning service was then conducted, several of the clergymen present taking a part therein, after which an cloquent sermon was preached by Rev. Alex. H. Vinton, of New York, who selected for his text Revelations XXI. 22. Before the close of the services Bishop Potter administered the rite of confirmation to about twenty candidates of both sexes.

THE M'COOLE-ALLEN MILL.

Appearance of the Contestants-Challenges

Appearance of the Contestants—Challenges and Counter Challenges.

[From the St. Louis Democrat, June 17.]

McCoole was in bea yesterday—sore, bruised, battered and almost blinded. His right eye was in total eclipse, and his left partially so. His face was gashed and guttered, as though a mule had been kicking him. The champion was terribly out of sorts and out of humor. He expressed his willingness to fight Alien another mill for $5,000 a side, within three months.

and out of humor. He expressed his willingness to fight Allen another mill for $5,000 a side, within three months.

Tom Allen, the hero of the day, is as sound as a dollar. He is naturally a braggart, but since the fight has restrained himself and assumed a commendable modesty. He is willing to fight both Gallander and McCoole, but will not consent to place himself again at the mercy of a crowd of St. Louis roughs. He prefers fighting in Canada, where the old English rule of "fair play" is in vogue. The fancy, however, say that if Allen fights again near this city, he shall have fair play or a funeral. The better disposed among them are now friends of Allen, and it is probable that he will be as well backed as McCoole, in case of a row. Allen is willing to make almost any arrangement with McCoole—to fight for the same money, to add $2,000 to it, or put up $5,000 and fight in private, with only twelve men present. M'coole CHALLENGES ALLEN—FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS PUT UP.

Last night we visited McCoole's saloon and found the champion surrounded by a number of his friends. He aduntted that he was in very poor condition when he went into the fight. It seems that for two weeks of the period of his training he was in bed, suffering from erystipelas and attended by Dr. Hodgen. This fact was known to only a few of his intimate friends. We also learned that Mike had indulged rather freely in beer and whiskey and took no pains to get into condition. McCoole said there was no doubt that Allen had gouged him. The fight had jaken place in Recordance with the rules of the London prize ring; the referee had been selected by Allen's party; the cutting of the Topes was not approved by McCoole and was done against his wishes, his friends had bet off him and according to the force of the foul. He therefore sent a challenge to Allen to fight him for $5,000 within three months and at some place not more than 100 miles from St. Louis. The sum of $500 was deposited by McCoole and the probability is that Allen will cover it.

NEGRO CLERKS IN THE CHARLESTON (S. C.) POST OFFICE.—The rumor mentioned in the Courier some time since of the appointment of colored clerks in the Post Office at this place has at length assumed a targethy shape, and in a few days the appointments the Post office at this place has at length assumed a tangible snape, and in a few days the appointments will be made. The gentlemen to be discharged have served in their positions with credit and fidelity, and are to be discharged for no fault of their own. It is probable that the new appointments are to be made simply to satisfy the mordinate lust after office that has characterized the colored man since his emancipation, and that it was meditated at the reappointment of the present Postmaster. The names of the appointees are N. Montgomery, formerly a barber, and — Smith, both light colored. We live under a republican government, and this is one of the sweets of republicanism. One is almost tempted to shout:—"The empire is peace! Let us have peace!"—Charlesson Courter, June 17.
